No Whiskey!

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is one of the very few tonic medicines that are not composed mostly of alcohol or whiskey, thus becoming a fruitful source of intemperance by promoting a desire for rum.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS is guaranteed to be a nonintoxicating stimulant, and it will, in nearly every case. take the place of all liquor, and at the same time absolutely kill the desire for whiskey and other intoxicating beverages.

Rev. G. W. RICE, editor of the American Christian Review, says of Brown's Iron Bitters:

Cin., O., Nov. 16, 1881. Gents:—The foolish wasting of vital force in business pleasure, and vicious indulgence of our people, makes your preparation a necessity; and if applied, will save hun-dreds who resort to saloons for temporary recuperation.

Brown's Iron BITTERS has been thoroughly tested for dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, weakness, debility, overwork, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption, liver complaints, kidney troubles, &c., and it never fails to render speedy and permanent relief.

Marriage.

Tell us not in idle jingle "marriage is an empty dream;" for the girl is dead that's single, and things are not what they seem. Life is real, life is carnest, single blessedness a fib; "Man thou art, to man returneth," has been stroken of the rib. Not enjoyment and spoken of the rib. Not enjoyment and not sorrow is our destined end or way, but to act that each to-mrrow finds us nearer marriage day. Life is long and youth is fleeting, and our hearts, though light and gay, still like pleasant drums are beating wedding marches all the day. In the world's field of battle, in the bivouac of life, and the part like dumb driven cattle. be not like dumb driven cattle—be a heroine; a wife! Trust no future, however pleasant; act—act in the liv-ing present, heart within and hope ahead. Lives of married folks remind us we can live our lives as well, and, departing, leave behind us such exam-ples as shall "tell"-such examples that another, wasting time in idle sport, a forlorn, unmarried brother seeing, shall take heart and court. Let us, then, be up and doing, with a heart on triumph set; still contriving, still pursuing, and each one a husband get. Mrs. Julius Hoffstadt, Madison, Ind. bears hearty testimoy to the wonderful cure by St. Jacobs Oil, of his wife, who suffered terribly with rheumatism. Permanent relief followed its use.

THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNORSHIP

The Lieutenant-Governor is, by vir-tue of his office, President of the Senate, and appoints all the committees in that body. Will not Mr. Laugh-ton, if elected, appoint a Committee on Railroads that will pigeon-hole all the bills that may be referred to it for the reduction of rates on the roads which pay him a handsome salary?-

semucca Silver State. The Enterprise effectually dispose of the Silver State's tallacies: Our Winnemucca contemporary is off the track in its judgment of Mr. Laughton, the Republican nominee for Lieutenant-Governor, in assuming that that gentleman would not regard the in erests of his constituents as para mount to all other considerations while serving them in a public capacity. It is a notorious fact that the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor was of Mr. Laughton's own personal seeking and that the only opposition he encountered is what is popularly called "railroad influence." Laughton is a gentleman of independent means and has indicated his purpose to resign his connection as an officer of the Virginia and Truckee Railroad Company at the end of the present year.

Nothing could be more frivolous than the argument put forward in this campaign to injure Mr. Laughton's candidacy before the people. It is held that should he be elected he will by virtue of his office be President of the Senate, and therefore by virtue of his office appoint all the committees in that body. Now anyone who will take the trouble to read the rules governing the Legislature of the State of Nevada, together with the Constitution of the State, will perceive the fallacies contained in such a statement. Rule 20, of the Standing Rules, adopted by the Senate at the last session, is as follows:

"All committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise specially directed BY THE SENATE."

Now it is clear enough that the Senate, if it distrusts its presiding officer, can appoint any or all of its committees without even changing its standing rules.

As for the insinuation that Mr. Laughton would appoint a Committee on Railroads that "will pigeon-hole all the bills that may be referred to it which pay him a handsome salary," it has already been answered in the statement that Mr. Laughton would consider the interests of his constituents paramount, and that not being an officer of the roads he could not receive a salary handsome, or otherwise, from them. The "pigeon-hole' bugbear is as bad as the rest of the mean and contemptible insinuations against Mr. Laughton, for it is in the power of the Senate at any time to demand a report from its committees, and upon failing to obtain one to proceed with such legislation as may be necessary, regardless of the action or non-action of a committee. So much for the latest assault upon a gentleman who has never been charged with a dishenerable act.

DEMOCRATIC BLUNDERING.

cratic party declared that State laws for the protection of the institution of slavery were and must remain paramount to laws of the general government; but where is the "higher law" to-day?

Thirty years ago the Democratic party anounced that "slavery is the corner stone of Republican institutions." Where is slavery to-day?

Twenty years ago the Democratic party insisted that "secession is an alienable night" Where is that pernicious doctrine to-day?

Seventeen years ago the Democratic party declared that the debt piled up by the rebellion would never be paid. Yet it has been reduced nearly onehalf up to to-day.

Seventeen years ago the Democratic party protested that the nation, under Republican rule, would be bankrupted; yet behold its prosperity to day.

Twenty years ago the Democratic party fulminated and voted almost solidly against the Republican greenbacks as an unconstitutional issue; yet see how they love them to-day.

Thirteen years ago the Democratic party went solidly, in Congress and aidy's statement in regard to State out, against the Resumption act, and finances during the Bradley adminis-Voters of this precinct should re-sember that it is the interest of the sumption day clause; yet specie paya year later they tried to kill the rements have been resumed to the great and was happy to know that the Re

THE MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Large Number of Citizens Listen to Interesting Speeches - Gov. Strother Makes Many Friends-Messrs. Dor-Say, and Stephens Throws Hot sho Into the Camp of the Enemy.

The Republican meeting last night at Nevada Theater was largely attended. F. R. Waggoner called the meeting to order and Capt. C. A. Bragg was elected Chairman, and T. K. Hymers, C. T. Bender, A. H. Manning, C. R. Wickes. G. W. Conkling, Jr., M. C. Lake and B. F. Leete were chosen Vice-Presidents. Chairman Bragg introduced Hon, Enoch Strother, who was greeted with a round of applause. Mr. Strother thanked his friends for the cordial greeting extended to him. He said he was proud of the honor the Republican party had bestowed in selecting him as their standard-bearer, and pledged himself, if elected, to perform the duties of the office fearlessly and honestly. He said no man or corporation had now or ever had any claims upon him, and that "no man or corporation shall

John M. Dormer, the nominee for Secretary of State, was next introduced and said:

"It is not within my province tonight to make a political talk, but I know that voters like to see the man who is asking them for their sufferages and hear him say a word or two. The office I seek is not a political one, but is clerical in its nature. It I am elected I will perform the duties connected with it with credit to myself and give the people no cause to regret that they voted for me."

Uncle George Tufly, the candidate for Treasurer, followed Mr. Dormer. He said:

"Ladies and shentlemens-I hope and trust you do not expect any lengthy speech from me. I feel it my duty, however, to say a few words. Shentlemens (of course the ladies have no votes in the political situation of Nevada), if you elect me your State reasurer I will sit on the money so all the bills that may be referred to it that it can't get away. I will thank for the reduction of rates on the roads you very kindly for your attention, and take my seat.

THE SPEECH OF THE EVENING.

J. A. Stephens was then introduced and made an eloquent speech. Mr. Stevens highly complimented Rend on its business prosperity. He said that during the canvass he had visited every part of the State, but had found no town enjoying the business advantages and prosperity that Reno and her people were blessed with.

"We have been challenged by the Democratic party to compare candidates and platforms, and we have al ways accepted the challenge with pleasure, knowing that by the com-parison ours will not suffer. Enoch Strother, our candidate for Governor came to this State 23 years ago. He loves the people and is familiar with the State's interests. He is honest, and capable, and will make one of the best Governors that ever filled the executive chair. Jewett Adams, he said, was a chronic office-seeker; that he had held the position of Lieutenant-Governor for eight years, and was Senate once in every two years for 60 gan to show anger, when the dumb days; that in eight years he had performed 240 days' work for which he had received $3,900 per year, or $31,-200 in all. He said Jewett had no perticular amount of height of a Visitor. particular amount of brains to recom mend him to the people, and that thousands of Democrate in the State were equally as capable of being Gov-ernor as Jewet tW. Adams.

"You have on your ticket for Congressman a young man who has worked from a peanut peddler in boyhood to a seat in the State Senate, and while he occupied a seat in that body he always worked faithfully for the people, never betrayed a trust or went back on a pledge,"

"I know Cassidy," said Mr. Ste-phens, "and have nothing to say against him as a gentleman, and personally I like him. I heard him make the most ingenious misrepresentation of facts last evening I ever heard in my facts last evening I ever heat it is life." The speaker reviewed each point made by Cassidy and refuted the same. He said that it was something new for Cassidy to be against corporations. He had always known him as being on their side. He reviewed Cassidy's record in the State Senate and said that Senator Jones would give more particularly his record on national questions to-night. He read from the State Controller's report of 1879 to show the utter fallacy in the past twenty months by the Democrats in office in Storey county benefit of the republic's industries to-day.

These are only a few of the many sure that the State would give a handsome majority to the Republican ticket on the 7th of November, and closed his remarks with a pithy and eloquent review of the past history of both parties.

At the morning session yesterday Miss Etla McNeely's paper elicited considerable applause and was received it could have been made. The essayist, or rather the lady lecturer, showed steep and difficult," but should be smooth and pleasant, over gentle slopes bright with verdure and flowers, watered by gurgling streams." There should be no greater pain or difficulty in mental growth than in healthy physical growth. It is in the teachers hands to make the school work slow and fatiguing or rapid and exhilarat. ing. In choosing a teacher, scholarly attainments are not only necessary, but a bright, sunshiny face and ap pearance should be demanded. The formal, stiff teacher represses the scholar and retards progress, but the bright, happy teacher draws out the love and enthusiasm of the scholar in all matters under consideration. Invention, imagination, language, ex-teacher. Such an one makes school happy and joyous; and so it should be. Why? Because education or mental development is a growth. Normal growth is, by the law of nature, not Go to Pechner and get cleaned up attended with pain, but with pleasuregiving sensations. Further: It is an established fact that all exercise of mind, which produces pleasure, is more easily and thoroughly grasped than that which does not produce the pleasure. And now, in answering the subject-question, the lecturer gave her own experiences. In the primary grades objects should be used in teachng arithmetic, geography, physiology and indeed every branch, in order that the more abstract studies in the higher grades may follow easily in their tracks. And in all these cases Miss McNeely related instances in which the system commended had proved of wonderful utility. Hence, concrete study is to be more and more intro-duced, whilst abstract study from the text book falls into the background. "If," the lecturer continued, "we yould interest and truly instruct our pupils we must bring nature into our schoolrooms, and not see her through man was firing a wake-up salute to get a crowd together to go to the relief of Truckee.

an author's eyes." Variety of methods, also, is an essential to interest. The benefit of allowing scholars in turn to take the place of the teacher in recita tion, whilst the balance of the class stand as critics, was shown. Ques-tions on the reading lesson add to its interest; also, reversing the usual order and allowing the pupil to question the teacher. Variety of exercises is also a necessary element of sustained interest. Originality in the teacher is another essential to success in keeping next Surveyor-General, is visiting Eu-reka and vicinity.

He also commended the system of punishing children by anticipation of it, more than by the punishment itself.

" THE SCHOOL TRIPOD."

In the afternoon session Superintendent M. D. Bowen read an interesting paper on the "the School Tripod."
The subject was chosen as suggestive and novel. The tripod consisted of trustees, teachers and patrons of the school. Nowhere in the Union do these exist in a state of perfect har-mony. They never will. The duties mony. They never will. The duties of the first leg in the tripod were now spoken of. Teachers have great responsibilities resting upon them; hence should possess not only high scnolar-ly attainments, but also good moral capacity. Many are in the position of teachers who are not fit for the work, and the somer these are found periment, and other qualifications of and cast out the better for the profes this kind, are necessary to the good sor, the pupils and the future generations. To pass an examination is not the only qualification required. Knowledge is useless unless with it there is the power to impart it to others. A teacher to be successful must work and study unceasingly. Once fitted, always so, is not true in school work. He must keep up with the times to in all things gain the re-spect and love of his scholars and the steem and regard of their parents. to demand respect from his scholars because it is too much trouble. The practice of giving lessons independent of the text book must be cultivated. Parrot-like work, ere long, will have to be entirely discarded, and nothing but intelligible results in the scholar received as evidence of the fitness of allow no possible excuse on the plea of "I didn't know." The teacher of "I didn't know." The teacher must remember that his duty is not to give the scholar new brains or facul-ties, but merely to cultivate those he already possesses.

The essayist then followed with a scathing denunciation of the incompe tency, incapacity, ignorance and inability (if we may coin a term) of the present school trustee. He showed clearly that unless the trustees performed their honorary duties in a more efficient manner, the sooner the office was abolished the better it would be for all concerned. The County Superintendent was shown to be a man far more capable, as a rule, of performing the work of the trustees, and it was recommended that that officer do the work. The patrons of the school wer urged to a more earnest consideration of the school question. The immense importance of it was shown, and the value of an immediate change for the better explained. Parents must be of the parents, teachers are often dis charged without sensible or just grounds. The new teacher has all the real work to go over again with his scholars, and he gets into hot water and is banished, and so the whee keeps revolving — a new teacher every quarter. In a great measure this is the fault of the parent and should not occur. Occasionally physical punishment is necessary, and no teacher, or very, very few, would ever think of so humiliating a scholar without just reason. Superintendeut Bowen concluded a most able lecture with Lord Brougham's admirable words: "The to him, armed with his primer, than I do to the soldiers in full military array."

After Prof. Bowen's lecture, Prof. Lyser gave an interesting talk on the subject of "Lauguage.". The Pro-fessor has what we term peculiar deas (to some of the teachers) on this subject. The superiority of man consists in that he possesses speech, whilst the lower animals do not. Language is the most important study of school work. Facility and accuracy in the of inguage. If the teaching of the present rememday does not attain these objects, new chers to methods must be introduced; and for the none can deny the impeachment that grammer as taught at present is a sors Howe and Lyser in that while failure and does not attain what it is the text book was a hindrance to the ing the work. Prof. Howe also took occasion to explain that he was thoroughly in sympathy with the modern methods of instruction given by Prof. Lyser, and his idea was that, if these methods obtained, school would be made so interesting to the pupil that the subject of discipline would become merely a secondary one. Rev. A. B. Palmer continued the discussion, and from the light of the teacher in Ohio 25 years ago explained the value of a strict discipline. This is not to be force, but by the teacher leading the scholars to be co-operative with him. The scholars should feel the honor of keeping order and maintaining discipline. This is only to be obtained by a continuous explanation of the lading scholars of the day afternoon a few members of the Institute indulged in a somewhat the proper meaning of words. Many heated debate, as Professor Lyser preforce, but by the teacher leading the present day is the result of want of yesterday afternoon a few members of the Institute indulged in a somewhat the proper meaning of words. Many heated debate, as Professor Lyser prefaced his remarks last evening with an pale and that difficulty? There is but one answer. It is that the present means are loadequate to attain the required end. Indeed, they are false. They are unphi-losophical; hence the want of results. The so-called English grammar is not English grammar, but merely an ap-propriated fatin grammar. The Latin language is an inflective one, while that of the English is peculiarly un-inflective. Hence the falseness of the principle of applying the principles of the one to the other. Before a gram-mar can be compiled of the language of any nation or people, the language must first be spoken and used. Then comes the student who studies the of the rules of English syntax were shown to be fa'se because based upon the Latin language. The only way a person can learn to do a thing is by doing it. So it is with language. The way to learn the mother tongue is by using it-by writing and speaking cor rectly. Those children who are brought up among parents and friends who use the language purely are those who speak perfectly and not those who bave studied all the grammars that ever were written. Where did Shakespeare and Bacon and all other great writers of the middle age gain their grammatical conception of language and accuracy of speech? Not from grammars, for there were none; but it must solely have been by using the language There is too much indolence in the and using it in the present forms.

profession. The teacher is not careful And now the important question is, how is the desired object tained if the old method is discarded? Simply by using language itself, from the simplest to the most complex forms. Then comes the query: Are those systems for teaching in this way in use? Yes. These were then ex-plained by the lecturer. A child at six years has a certain vocabulary, the teacher. Strict discipline in six years has a certain vocabulary, schools, also, is an essential, and no limited and incomplete. This must person is fit to teach unless this is be corrected and enlarged and lanmaintained by him. The time allotted guage lessons given daily. The aim to each study should be known to is to lead the child from the earliest each scholar, so that due preparation years to make sentences and make may be made, and the teacher should them correctly. To connect objects allow no possible excuse on the plea with pictures and words which represent those objects, and with written characters which also call the object to mind. This leads the child to use the vocabulary it is learning with accuracy and promptitude. Immediately the child can write, this work should

> James, that the grammar itself should not be introduced to the pupil before the high-school term began, A FREE DISCUSSION. Discussion now being in order, Prof. Howe of Carson followed with a most eloquent argument that, although he had said up to a cerlain point, yet he deemed it essential that the rules should be known and applied, so that reason alone should guide the pupil in grammatical construction, and not mere habit. Mistakes should be cormistakes, but the reason should be hown and the pupil able to grasp the reason. Hence if the text book was entirely discarded this would be an impossibility and the teacher placed in the unenviable position of a corrector without a reason for the correction, except simply and dogmatically, " It's

After a few remarks by Mr. Palmer upon the subject, Mrs. Scoville fol-lowed with high eulogiums upon Prof. Howe's methods of imparting grammatical knowledge. She argued that it is the duty of the teacher to stimulate the minds of his scholars. His aim should be to lead them to love the study; and not only this, but to infuse such a spirit of enthusiasm into their minds that they shall enjoy everything in which they engage. Text books are not to be made the ole reliance of education. The mental faculties must be brought into play; hence, therefore, she highly approved Prof. Lyser's ideas and hoped the time would speedily come when they would be universally adopted.

Mrs. Martin contended that the system of diagraming was of great help to the scholar in pointing out the relation of words to each other, and to the ideas which are to be expressed.

Mr. B. C. Maris thought that the originality of the teacher had a great deal to do with his success in im-parting grammatical knowledge. Mr. James heartily endorsed both profesgrade, and as a consequence excited considerable attention and after argu-

make blunders in grammar. Why is this? Have teachers been frauds while professing to teach grammar? Have the scholars been too dull to learn while in other subjects there was no difficulty? These teachers are the scholars been too dull to learn while in other subjects there was no difficulty? These teachers are the scholars been too great difference of opinion on the subject. He paid a hand-ome compliment to Nevada schools in general, and said that the reputation for excellence of the Gold Hill and Carson public schools was not confined to this State, but ex-tended to California and the Coast in general. He said no better standard of how a public school should be conducted could be cited than the schools of Gold Hill, of which C. S., Young, the Republican candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction is principal. The Professor paid that gentlemen a high compliment as an educator. After thanking the citizens comes the student was a masterly support of the theory began his lecture on the same and calls it grammar.

That in the judgment of this convention the Legislature, when next convended, should make the necessary provisions for a convention to revise the entire constitution of the State; that in providing for such convention well-guarded re-trictions should be made, defining the number of delegates, their compensation, and fixing the duration of its session; that we believe such a convention is imperatively demanded by the urrent necessities of the times, and among others for the following cogent rereons: First—to change the fundamental law so as to secure as nearly as may be the equal and uniform taxation on all property subjected thereto. S-cond—to regulate and render equal and just all the rates of passage and freights upon all railroads doing business in this State, to the end that our leading industries may be fostered and not oppressed, built up and not overthrown; and third—to secure the reduction of the expenses of the State to the minimum by discussion with all unnecessary officers and employes, readering more speedy and economical the collection of public revenue, and the general administration of justice.
